

MISSION

The Mission of the Cheswold Police regarding Abandoned, Stored and Towed Vehicles is to achieve the following:

1. To enhance the town of Cheswold's physical image by towing abandoned, dismantled, and inoperable vehicles on town streets.
2. Encourage residents to comply with the applicable State of Delaware and Town Code sections through education and enforcement.
3. Provide information on how to get towed vehicles released.
4. Reduce the crowding of Town streets with abandoned and inoperable vehicles.
5. Deter major repairs on Town streets. Major repairs such as replacing an engine or transmission is not permitted.

What is an Abandoned Vehicle?

Any vehicle which is:

Inoperable, dismantled, wrecked, displaying expired registration plates (at least 30 days), Missing major components (engine, transmission, tires, lights, any body panels')

Inoperable for which it is designed

Vehicles situated on private property or upon any State or Public Highway for a period of 24 hours without being removed.

Any vehicle on a public roadway which has not been moved for a period of 10 business days after notice has been posted.

NOTE: The Town Code Enforcement or Police Officer shall post a notice on an abandoned vehicle, which states the vehicle be removed by a stated day and time (not less than 72 hours after posting notice). (Town Ordinance 08-11-11-013)

However, any Police Officer or Code enforcement Officer can Tow a vehicle deemed hazardous after making an attempt to contact the registered owner of the vehicle. (Town Code Section 211-6)

Authority to Tow and Impound (Town Ordinance 08-11-11-03 Section 7.2)

"If the violation is not remedied within the time set forth herein, the Cheswold Police Department is hereby authorized to remove or have removed such vehicle from the residence.

There are many laws and procedures which govern the reasons that a vehicle can be towed, from abandoned, hazardous, traffic or criminal violations.

If you feel that your vehicle was towed in error please contact the police department regarding this issue please do not confront the tow company.

What Should you do if you suspect a car to be abandoned or hazardous?

Vehicle Release Tips

Here are some tips to make the vehicle release process easier for those whose vehicle was towed by the Cheswold Police Department .

- Vehicles are released by the Cheswold Police Department ONLY! You can get a release during normal business hours (Monday thru Friday, 8am—4pm).
- Please arrive with the following documents: a current valid driver's license, registration or title if available, proof of valid insurance and case number if applicable.
- Only the registered owner, his/her agent or legal owner can get a vehicle release. If you are not one of these people, go to the DMV and transfer the vehicle registration to your name. If acting on behalf of the registered owner, you need a notarized letter or power of attorney from the registered owner.
- If your vehicle was towed for expired registration you must first go to the DMV and pay your fees before coming to the Police Department.
- No vehicle will be released without the proper paperwork.
